

Military Dept. Purchases The Evergreen Everglades 4½ Teachers Added To Loyola's Payroll

The United States Reserve Officers Training Corps has recently announced that it has purchased a 300 acre swamp adjacent to Loyola College in order to help train the R.O.T.C. cadets for jungle and tropical warfare, since the cadre is considering the possibility of declaring war on Notre Dame College.

The Army has spared no expense in purchasing the entire everglades, and it is estimated that the Army will sink 100 billion dollars into the project (a mere drop in the bucket to their expensive, exclusive, multi-million dollar edifice on Loyola's campus). The swamp, which is located to the left of the Loyola chapel next to the science building, has been affectionately designated as Project Number 01245693520742-0 or the Evergreen Everglades.

The Everglades will be utilized by all the Loyola cadets, and the Army has poured thousands of dollars worth of barracuda and man-eating piranha to inhabit the approximate 300,000,000 square yards of water covering the glade.

Summer camp for the Juniors will consist of thirty glorious days in the tropical playground. However, this project will necessitate the reception of four more needles for tetanus, yellow fever, malaria, and scurvy, and the Army will hire thirty more doctors to treat the 300 possible maladies which the cadets could contract under such deplorable conditions.

Elite Seniors?

The seniors, the elite of the corp, will complete the final phase of their military training in the 300 acre, disease infected paradise.

In addition to the many advantages of using the Everglades, Col. Who Dunit and Capt. Snow White announced last week that on rainy Wednesdays drill will be held in that sector of the everglades which contains 10 feet of water. This week

During the past week a number of new faculty members have been added to Loyola's payroll, this number does not include some of the old faculty who are still on the way.

Prominent among the new arrivals is a youthful looking sociology teacher (doubtlessly one of the older boys) named Dan, who has come to replace Fr. Conlin. It seems that Father asked to be replaced when a young juvenile delinquent-type in one of his classes asked him how soon he was leaving for Philadelphia. When last seen Father was headed for Pennsylvania station with a basketball under one arm and a case of Metrecal under the other. Dan is writing a new sociology book about the four basic wishes.

Kid Stuff

Also newly arrived on our campus is a young Jesuit who will teach philosophy and French. This young scholastic will take Mr. McDermott's philosophy classes; Mr. McDermott departed under a cloud after John Kilkenny accused him of shaving points in a basketball game. This new faculty member will also take Mr. Colimore's French classes. Mr. Colimore left early for Europe this year to do research and polish up his backhand. As he boarded the plane, Mr. Colimore was nodding and grinning broadly. Oh! The new member's name is Mr. Leonard O'Doberman, S. J.

Snifkan Vancement

A new addition to the biology department is Dr. John Stuff. Dr. Stuff's field is marine biology and he is an expert on squids and worms. When this reporter went to interview him, he was engaged in a conversation with some junior Theology majors trying to determine what to do with a two-headed squid he had just discovered.

Ranger Joe

Newly arrived in the brigade department is M/Sgt. Joseph Oomphendoll. Sgt. Oomphendoll was originally brought in from Ranger School to handle the new demerit system and the scheduling of tests; but since that's ex post facto and he doesn't understand Latin, he'll run the projector instead.

Pohr Old Fawtha

Fr. Chanticleer Lavin (no relation to Sam) will be replaced by Dr. Rip Cloth, the famous actor whose performance in "King of Queens" was surpassed only by the original Pontius Pilot. Sam thinks that Rip is the best Pilot to date. (if you're looking for a date). Rip is also a Marxist whose slogan "Chocolate bahrs for everyone" has won him international praise. Rip was also a "sensation" as the wirey old tiger in "Androcles and The Lion". Rip will take over as the head of the English Department and will also swing from the rafters of the library.

ALL-TIME WINNERS: (l. to r.) Don, Mr. Leo O'Doberman, S.J. Rip Cloth and Sgt. Joe Oomphendoll. the latest treats to Loyola's tranquility.

the Colonel decided that the brigade should drill in the sector with 12 inches of water, thus canceling his previous orders.

Cadet Col. Nugenia Delka has announced "this step taken by the United States Army is of the greatest magnitude in its history and is topped only by the John Glenn orbit and my appointment as cadet Colonel, if I must say so myself."

At the Federal Inspection next week glass bottom boats will be provided for the cadre and the inspecting officers. This step was taken to facilitate the close and thorough inspection of the rifles and the spit-shined shoes.

Spotty News

Next week the Hound will feature a "Believe It or Don't" column containing items such as:

1. The junior class is having their prom in a synagogue.
2. "Impromptu" is a play.
3. The perseverance of Oliver Twiddlede, Who's he?

Fool of Fools

The Greyhound would like to congratulate Mrs. Schnock on her "April Fool Joke" to the world, her son Bob. He's a lasting memory. Cold Reception

The Loyola College Glee Club will give a joint concert in Nome, Alaska with Our Lady of Mt. McKinley. Their program will consist of "Tropical Heat Wave," "South Pacific," and "Summer Time."

Charity Mixer

There will be a mixer this Wednesday evening April 31. The mixer will be with Thelma Cownowszski's Home for Girls from ages 55-68. The Loyola College Sodality is sponsoring this square dance. Admission is free. Proceeds will go to the "Put a Shower in the Locker Room" campaign.

Weapons

The Loyola College R. O. T. C. cadre has announced that next week at drill the cadets will be issued 19 lb. rifles with (for Whity fans only) 3.5 lb. bayonets.

CAPTAIN COURAGEOUS: Capt. Snow White last seen maneuvering his troop through the Everglades shouting "Sink in smartly!"

The Gayhound

Dear Gayhound,

Your editorial policy is slipping Week after week you fill your editorials with snide remarks concerning our college. Your constant complaining and bickering is enough to make anyone sick. If you don't like things around here, why don't you get out.

Yours truly,
Will Hoffman
A.B. History

Dear Gayhound,

Here are a few lines concerning a new idea of mine about the establishment of a military state. I firmly believe that the best run government is a government which uses force to overcome stupid mistakes of the law-making bodies. Let's give the military the power which it deserves.

Affectionately yours,
Dr. Nicholas Narga
Pol. Science Dept.

Dear Gayhound,

There comes a time when every law-abiding American citizen can no longer hold his peace with your kind. Your stories tend toward being subversive and your editorial policy is a constant threat to American youngsters, who should be protected from villains of democracy such as yourself. Let's face it gentlemen;

you're pushing the power of "freedom of the press" to the breaking point and I hope that they get you for it.

I hate you,
George Lincoln Rockhead
Freedom, Calif.

* * *

Dear Gayhound,

I have reason to believe that your paper is Communist controlled and had intended to take my complaint against you to the Supreme Court. However, I recently discovered that they are Communist dominated, also. Therefore, I plan to take my plea against you to the President, unless my suspicions are correct and he is also a Communist. You'll get yours.

Yours truly,
Robert Belch

Dear Gayhound,

Your newspaper deserves nothing less than annihilation. My sisters and I are disgusted with the material that you use, and are currently combining our magical powers to rent your offices with a tremendous tidal wave. Your time will come soon.

Mystically yours,
Gypsy Mary

The Mongrel

Billy Morris has been walking about the campus lately with a sad face, so the dog began to investigate. It seems that the tie company which makes the "already tied" ties which Bill uses, has gone out of business. Cheer up, Bill, I hear they are offering a "How to tie a tie" course at Iona this summer.

Phil Potter says that he will not rent a tux for the Junior Prom. He says that he has one which he uses when he has band engagements. Well, from the condition of that tux, it appears that he had "other" engagements! The Dog also hopes that the guitar doesn't go with the tux!

I have just been informed that Doctor Duffy of our Biology Dept. is the program advisor for Ben Casey. Cheer up, Ben, our freshmen have to put up with the same thing!!

My canine spy in Hollywood informs me that Mr. Magoo is quite angry at Marty Maher. It seems that the movie studio wants to shelve Magoo and start the next series starring Marty!

Doctor Varga advises all students to support the Virginia Civil War Centennial Commission.

Jorge Ordonez has just written a new book entitled "In my Country."

The members of the Junior Class have finally announced the place of the Junior Prom as the auditorium of Beth El Synagogue. Now there are rumors that the theme for the Prom will be "Exodus" or "1001 Arabian Nights."

My New York spy informs me that the New York Hotel Owners Association is looking for Pat Flynn. It seems that Pat discovered a new hotel—the Hotel Biltmore—while in New York, but they can't find it. New York needs Pat Flynn!!!!

Social Note: Emory Elliott has just returned from Elkton!

Ernie Gaglin

The Gayhound takes great pleasure in saluting this week Loyola's favorite son--Ernie Gaglin! Ol' Ern has been at Evergreen for 15 years and is planning to graduate in 1964.

Ernie has been active in campus politics since he has been at Loyola. He has been President of the Uniform Cleaner's Club (now defunct because Ern used concentrated sulfuric acid), vice-president of "Help Archie Mulch The Leaves Club," and secretary of the Cafeteria Clean-Up Committee. The one activity which shows that Ernie always does something right is the laying of the flagstone walk near the faculty house and the tennis courts. His political career reached its peak last December when many members of the freshman class voted for Mr. Gaglin to be secretary of the class. Because of scholastic difficulties, Ern was withdrawn--a sad day in his life.

Ernie has been married since his fourth freshman year. He married his childhood sweetheart, Ima Hogg. This wedding was the social highlight of 1952. Ima is known to many Loyola students as the P.R. Queen in 1960. Ern and Ima have three little Gargins--Ima, jr., Barf, and Simply. This happy family lives at 6813 Pig Alley.

Our hero has been in every major offered at Loyola. He is presently a history major who is doing a special project--the tracing of his and Ima's family tree. He hasn't had too much luck with his family, but he has traced Ima's family all the way back to the Mayflower. It seems that Ima's predecessors came in crates to America.

Ernie is a member of the Democratic Party. He is planning to run for Mayor of Baltimore in 1963. When asked some of his programs, Ernie said, "I believe that the East-West Expressway should be run through City Hall; that the Port of Crisfield be closed; that the Eastern shore be sunk; these, and all other peaceful programs which will make the people of the city of Baltimore and the rest of the people of the state a more homogeneous group; I support." When Ernie was confronted with the problem of dropping out of school if he were elected Mayor, he said "I'll stay in school, since being Mayor doesn't take much time."

In a way, the students of Loyola don't want Ernie to be elected to the Mayorship, because we need him here. There are rumors that Ern and Ima will be chosen as Mr. and Mrs. Evergreen at the end of the present semester. So it is almost assured that Ernie will stay since he considers this more important than the mayorship.

Dear Flabby

Dear Flabby:

I'se is an English major and I'se is having trouble passing my coarse. I'se thinks it's because the teacher doesn't like me. What can I'se due to make him like mee more.

Unsure

Dear Unsure:

I think there is a basic conflict between your inner emotions and your outward self. You tend to display in your writing a certain positive psychosis for or rather a tense deference against all expression. In other words, your spelling stinks.

Dear Flabby:

I am a junior Philosophy major and am having trouble resolving a problem about the change in being. Could you enlighten me?

Lost

Dear Lost:

How would I know; all my teacher does is look at trees all the time.

Dear Flabby:

My little brother has only one ambition in life--to be a Dean of Men! What can I do about this horrible situation?

Frank Scotch

Dear Frank Scotch:

I would suggest that you try to talk to him into becoming a fireman.

Dear Flabby:

Please tell me how I can have a "swinging weekend" in the "Big-B."

Wondering

Dear Wondering:

Dream on, "Jack," this will never happen. Go to Philadelphia or N.Y.C.

Dear Flabby:

I am having a little trouble with this parking problem and I wonder if I should be forceful or diplomatic in handling it.

Dean of Men

Dear Dean:

May I suggest a good book, "How to Win Friends and Influence People" by Dale Carnegie.

Dear Flabby:

I know this good looking girl and I found out that she has been going out with some other guy without my knowing it. What should I do?

Concerned

Dear Concerned:

Nothing, I'm sure that the three of us can come to some agreement.

Dear Flabby:

This guy who is a friend of mine likes to go to parties every weekend and to New York when he can. What can I do to discourage him?

Anxious

Dear Anxious:

Don't discourage him, man; he's the kind of guy for me; what's his name, address, etc.?

Dear Flabby:

I have lost over $5.00 in the various machines around school, and have become depressed every time. I know I shouldn't, but I do anyway. Can you advise?

Worried

Dear Worried:

Why don't you try giving them a good swift kick; I've found it to do wonders for my ego.

Culture Club

This past Sunday evening the Culture Club of Loyola College held its monthly meeting at the home of J. Leonard Blockentrott, III, the president of the club. The meeting was held in Mr. Blockentrott's cellar which is tastefully decorated in a late Urban Renewal motif, which, I am glad to report, has caught on very well in this area lately.

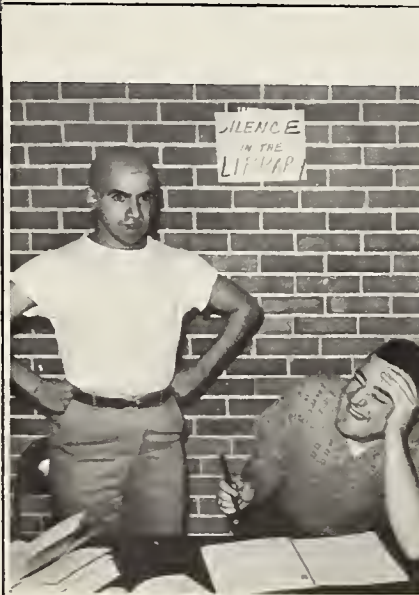

Guest speaker for the occasion was Dr. Nickelby Vogar, associated with Peoria Textile Institute, who gave an interesting, informative, and very long paper entitled "The Advantages of the B. V. D. Twist Shirt" which was received with a standing ovation by the members, as Mr. Blockentrott's furniture had unfortunately been repossessed that day.

Immediately following Dr. Vogar's talk there was a brief question and answer period. After a solid thirty seconds of intellectual discussion, it was motioned by a Mr. Walskis that the meeting be adjourned for refreshments. The motion was carried unanimously at which point there was a mass withdrawal to the kitchen with Dr. Vogar in the fore.

Meeting Broken Up

As is always the case at these meetings, there was much discussion over refreshments. It seems that a large majority of the members wanted polish ham but smoked ham had been bought instead. Putting culture aside for a minute, Dr. Vogar took a poke at President Blockentrott's magnanimous nose, which precipitated a general furor. This brought the riot squad to the house and the meeting was closed on this sad note.

Use Mr. Cleaner

"We do, here in the library, for keeping things neat and in order," says Connie Cleaner, his loyal helper. Even the Boss agrees: "We'll gladly show anyone interested how useful they are by taking them to the Cleaners," he said, while raising the overdue fines by 50 cents.

Nazdrowie

Really Refreshing

From the land of the Iron Curtain comes this refreshing new drink Nazdrowie tomato juice. This is the drink of the nation and it comes in the color of the nation . . . red.

Nazdrowie is pure quality made from the finest government tomatoes, grown from the finest government seeds, on the finest government land, picked by the best government farmers with the finest government hands. Then it is transported to the finest government factories over the fewest government roads. Yes, comrades, Nazdrowie is your product. We do not boast of the many, many vitamins and minerals found in Nasdrowie. All that we say is . . . "You will get lead poisoning if you don't use it in your daily diet."

Nazdrowie--for that smile of health.

When good friends get together they always say . . . Nazdrowie

In The Mature Male . . .

There are constant reminders of the presence of sweat glands which somehow convey an unpleasant odor. To combat this, the male may use any of a number of deodorants. However, statues aren't so lucky, and they tend to get frustrated and go to pieces without sufficient hygienic protection. (Confer Venus De Milo). That's why it's up to all discriminating statue owners to protect their little marble friends from becoming disagreeable to others. Help to wipe out marble mold by using CRUDDY for your musty monuments. When you do, Your friends will immediately notice and say: "We think that all of your statues are CRUDDY ones."

REMEMBER CRUDDY--RECOMMENDED BY AMERICAN CHISELERS EVERYWHERE.

Hustling Faculty Quintet Defeats Student Cagers

Last Wednesday afternoon, the faculty copped the annual student vs. faculty basketball game by a score of 37-29. The faculty seven (that's including referees Charley O'Donnell and Don Wallenhorst) was paced by "Wish the Swish" Galvin and "Hurrying" Hoegberg who notched 10 and 8 points respectively. Galvin, who was the contest's leading scorer, dropped in most of his points on quick (relatively speaking) cuts under the student's basket. Other sparklers for the teachers were Nap Doherty with 5 points, "Hips" Heisy with 3 and "Set Shot" Conlin who scored 2.

The real difference in the contest, however, was the faculty team's wealth of backcourt talent. "Shifty" Schaffner, "Duke DiBiagio," "Dead Eye" McDermott, "Dizzy" Duffy, and "Traveler Vince" Colimore accounted for 7 points among them besides putting on a number of fine displays of sloppy dribbling and beautifully placed errant passes.

A notable feature of the gamewas the hustling?? but clean defensive play of the teachers who gave the students only three foul shots. The faculty in turn profited by the dirty play of their opponents to hit 9 of 30 foul attempts. Leading (in attempts, anyway) foul shooter for the faculty was their quick (almost convulsive) moving guard, "Dead eye" McDermott.

Mobster Nick Torbin lies dead with lethal bowling ball lodged deep in right Thyroid gland.

Bowling League Members Approached By Gamblers

Last week, Loyola College was shook to its foundations by a sports scandal. It concerned the alleged pin-shaving and foul-line crossing of two teams in the Intra-mobster Bowling League. At an emotion filled press conference held at Andy's last Friday night, Intra-mobster commissioner J. Edgar Doherty announced that two teams, "Sam Capone's Gang" and the "High Balls" would be thrown out of the league for their crimes. Those present at the show-down meeting were Bill "Quiet Man" Smuck and Tommy "Scarface" Newcomb. When asked about his team's offence, Smuck was heard to comment, "That's a loser."

For a few days, the two disbanded teams seemed to mull over their fate. Then in a seven day reign of terror, they began to slaughter countless mob members in the area's bowling alleys.

Hound Sportsmen Active In Many Outside Projects

It has come to the attention of the Gayhound sports staff that a number of Loyola sports personalities are quite active in other fields besides athletics. A few examples follow.

Well Known Authors

Wilson Beane, Loyola's popular and hard-working trainer, has just come out with his autobiography entitled, "I Ain't But One Man."

Bill Smuck has written a philosophical work called, "The Virtue of Silence" or "Why I Never Say Much."

"Dead Eye" McDermott, scrappy backcourtman for the faculty cage squad, has written a book called "The Metaphysics of Foul Shooting" or "Always Wear Your Glasses When You Play Basketball."

Vic Corbin has discovered a number of new dives recently, most of them being located in south Baltimore.

Capone Cornered

One by one the gangsters bit the boards until at last Doherty and Newcomb closed in for the final kill on Sam Capone. After the exchange of shots, Capone lay dead with three bullet-holes neatly placed in a triangular pattern in his head.

"What do we do now?" asked Newcomb? "What else?" asked Doherty? He then gingerly placed his fingers into Capone's cold skull and lurched forward, sending Capone sprawling down the lanes toward the pins. "Strike!" he screamed, as Capone took down all ten beautifully. However, Newcomb refused to certify the mark because he noticed that Doherty had crossed the foul line.

Two Heads Better

The two inspectors turned and walked from the alley. As they moved out onto the crowded street, Doherty commented that the investigation had been successful because two heads are better than one. A passing theology teacher mentioned something about baptism and two heads as the three disappeared into the crowd.
